

To Be Diamond

In the future, some state will exist. We will be older; our business will be different.

Wishes and imperatives will not assure we arrive where we want to be. Our job is to manage to our desired state.

We must craft our actions so that reality is the achievement of our chosen future.

We must not only manage for success we must manage to success.